ual election of officers will be held to be followed by a social hour.

Many of our society folk are beginning to prepare for the annual after-the-holidays departure for warmer climes. The first to leave will be Col. and Mrs. Charles Arthur Carlisle, who depart tomorrow for San Francisco, from whence they will sail Jan. 14 on the steamship "Golden State" for Manila, making a one-day stop at Honolulu. For several weeks they will be the guests of Gen. and Mrs. Leonard Wood at Manila and will then visit China and Japan. They plan to take a houseboat at Nanking and go up the Yangtze to Hankow, from which point they will go by rail direct to Peking and thence to Mukden, through Korea to Seoul, then via the Fusan-Schimonoseki route to Japan. In Japan they will stop at Tokyo, from which place they expect to take in all the sights of interest and will sail from Yokohama for home about the middle of April. Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Studebaker, Jr., expects to leave Wednesday for Florida to spend the remainder of the winter. Miss Elizabeth Reimold and Miss Bertha Barr leave Tuesday for New York, from which port they will sail Jan. 14 on the steamship "Tuna" for Havana, Jamaica, Panama, Costa Rica and other southern points. They expect to be absent from the city about a month. Among those leaving for California this week are Mrs. Elizabeth Kettering and Mrs. William C. Warner, who depart on Wednesday, Mrs. Charles Murdock, Mrs. M. G. Staley and Miss Louise Studebaker, who leave later.

Found! Real Old-Fashioned Girl

MISS LIBBIE SPIES, BROOKLYN'S PRETTIEST HIGH SCHOOL GIRL, PREFERS MANDOLIN, DUSTY AND SWEETEST TO STARDOM IN THE MOVIES.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 7.—With Miss Libbie Spies voted Brooklyn's prettiest high school girl, it should naturally follow that a stage career or stardom in the movies is her next step.

But that's where the hitch comes in. Instead of the bright lights or the flickering film, this 17-year-old young lady just her plans all set to turn to a complete education in teaching and cooking.

A School Marm. She wants to be a school marm first, then a good housekeeper.

Pleased with the honor bestowed upon her? "Certainly," she says, "but if I am pretty it is not due to any effort on my part—so why get excited about it?"

"I like the great outdoors and I love horseback riding and tennis. Perhaps that explains my color. It doesn't come from rouge."

A Cover. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. H. E. Westerville Partridge and Miss Mae Applegate.

Says Brains Count. "And besides, I want to travel. Beauty is all right, I guess. But brains are what count, and teaching and traveling will give me knowledge."

Plan Reception To South Bend's Ex-Service Men

eligible men are members of such organizations, the committee stresses the fact that a man does not have to be a member to be invited. Any man who has been in service with government forces in any war is invited, and expected, to attend. A uniform, a service button, or insignia of some sort will identify a man and admit him as a guest.

Tickets for the general public are being sold by a committee headed by Mrs. Thal Talcott, and may also be obtained at the stores of George Platner, Huille and Mike's, Golden D. Mann, the Oliver hotel and the Jefferson cafe. The minimum price of the tickets, which will admit a man and lady, is $5, or "whatever you want to give." One man "wanted to give" $500, while several more have thought it worth $100 to attend the reception and meet "their" buddies.

An interesting program is in the process of arrangement. It will include dancing on the second and third floors of the building, selections by the Studebaker band, on the first floor, along with a trench, a dugout, and huts in charge of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus, and the Red Cross. Coffee and doughnuts are to be dispensed from the huts during the evening, while refreshments will be served upstairs at a later hour.

The building is to be appropriately decorated, and in fact, everything possible is being done to make the evening successful and enjoyable from beginning to end. Over 5,000 people are expected, and with the enthusiasm already being shown, there is no doubt that it will be the biggest affair of its kind ever held in South Bend.

Col. Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, Claude E. Gregg, state commander, and Gen. L. R. Gignilliat, of Culver, have already signified their intention of attending the reception, and invitations have been sent to Capt. R. D. Woodside, of New York, president of the Veterans of the World War, and Ellsworth Jeffery, Cleveland, Ohio, national head of the Army and Navy union.

The executive committee for the reception is composed of Louis Hamerschmidt, William Danner, and Mrs. Bictor F. Jones. Those heading the other committees are as follows: Program, Mrs. Howard Woolverton; music, Mrs. J. C. Ellsworth; refreshments, Mrs. A. R. Erdine, assisted by Dr. C. A. Lippincott; decorations, Mrs. J. E. Neff; publicity, Mrs. E. M. Morris; printing, Mrs. A. B. Thielems; tickets, Mrs. Thal Talcott; Mrs. F. E. Hering with Mrs. Mattie Hickox and Mrs. Christian Pretz, will select the women who will act as hostesses.

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS—

My Daughter, there be Seven Pet Abominations, which no woman can endure in any man, a "weird."

Yet, he that committeth them knoweth not why he cast out from her favor, and is never numbered "among these present" at the house party.

Long hair at the back of the neck and a dress-shirt that bulge, who can bear them without "wincing?" But a bald head may be "clean looking"; yea, even "intellectual."

A close-cropped, gray mustache lendeth distinction; but a misplaced eyebrow upon the upper lip is as a dotted veil which burthens the eyes and spoileth the scenery. It is an unspoken insult!

The "cave-man" may be put down and laughed to shame; but an insinuating manner and a hand that squeezeth the arm without provocation are as sugar upon slugs, which must be swallowed and ignored, however sickening.

A rough chin may be forgiven; but a scented kiss, that proclaims cloves and cheese, and tobacco and licorice, is as a paste jewel in a platinum setting, bitterly disappointing.

A cheap wit may be supportable; but facetious cleverness and glittering cynicism are as pepper in the eyes and as a halprin that presseth on a nerve, exceedingly painful.

A clattering tongue causeth boredom; but assumed "world-weariness" in a youth of twenty-four causeth secret mirth; and puffy-like boyishness in a man over forty-four causeth tears of pity.

A flatterer may offend the intelligence; but he that seeketh to IM-PROVE a woman's mind, and to criticize her taste, offendeth her soul and stabbeth her vanity. Yea, he is as castor oil and aloes, which are wholesome, but NOT welcome.

Likewise, there be Seven Things which delight the soul of woman and cause her to rejoice.

A man that KNOWETH when he cannot dance, and refraineth from trying; a SHY man that permiteth his love to adore her; a man that showeth devotion to old ladies and wall-flowers; a man who can order a dinner without "fussiness"; a man who sendeth flowers on the anniversary of the first kiss; a man who can listen while a woman talketh, without interjecting his own views or planning his NEXT bon-mot; and a man that escheweth "snappy" clothes, pinhead coats, pink ties, ribboned eye-glasses, and impertinent witticisms.

Verily, verily, a man of subtlety and understanding shall prevail over women! Damsels shall set snares for his feet, matrons shall include him among "those invited"; and widows shall hang garlands upon his door. Yea, in the Rosebud Garden of Bachelors, he shall be known as "The Winner!"

ONE HUG; COULDN'T BREATHE; GETS WRIT

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7.—Declaring her husband notified her on his return from service in France that he was "hard boiled," and forthwith hugged her so hard her ribs were injured and it hurt her to breathe for several days, Catherine Strode was granted a divorce from Leslie A. Blakley.

"I want you to understand I am hard boiled," Mrs. Blakley quoted her husband as saying to her. She also declared he said "I have learned something since I have been away."

Similarity in Names Gives

Innocent Woman Criticism

Mrs. R. E. Huilett, 1218 S. 15th st., River Park, was not the woman referred to by The News-Times in an article published on Dec. 28, relative to the theft of funds from the Makelaist Art store. Mrs. Huilett is the wife of Raxford E. Huilett, who is connected with the St. Joe Electric company. Both are highly respected citizens. The woman referred to was one Evelyn Hewlett, wife of Roy Hewlett, and was released after the store had been reimbursed.

Many have suffered for talking, none ever suffered for keeping silence.

"Women, Organize to Gain Power," Urges Business Leader

MISS MARGARET STARRATT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7.—"Organize!"

"Get together! Learn what the women of the rest of the world are doing!"

This, says Miss Margaret Starratt, is what woman must do before she quite reaches the greatest heights in the world of affairs.

"Women can work together quite as effectively as men, but they haven't learned to expect to yet."

"They know this power to united effort, but they haven't come to think of themselves enough in connection with it."

Miss Starratt is national organizer for the National Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Formerly secretary to Justice Brandeis and in the insurance business for herself, Miss Starratt is now the chief factor in the growth of an organization which already represents something over 32,000 business and professional women.
